CORPORATION

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT AND ETHICS

APRIL 2021

GEMXX Corporation (the “Corporation”)

The Corporation together with all of its direct and indirect subsidiaries and affiliates, has created this Code of Ethics and Business Conduct (“Code”) to outline principles to which the Corporation’s employees, officers and directors are expected to adhere in the conduct of the Corporation’s business. This Code sets forth principles regarding responsibilities to other employees, the public and other stakeholders. This Code applies equally, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, to all permanent, contract, secondment and temporary agency employees who are on long-term assignments with the Corporation, as well as to consultants to the Corporation who are referred to herein as “employees”. Any violations of this Code or any other policies established by the Corporation from time to time, may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of service.

The Corporation’s Corporate Governance and Compensation Committee (the “Committee”), a committee of the Board, is responsible for administering the Code. The Committee has delegated day-to-day responsibility for administering and interpreting the Code to the Chair of the Committee.

The Corporation expects its employees, officers and directors to exercise reasonable judgment when conducting the Corporation’s business. The Corporation encourages its employees, officers and directors to refer to this Code frequently to ensure that they are acting within both the letter and the spirit of this Code. The Corporation also understands that this Code will not contain the answer to every situation you may encounter or every concern you may have about conducting the Corporation’s business ethically and legally. In these situations, or if you otherwise have questions or concerns about this Code, the Corporation encourages each officer and employee to speak with his or her supervisor (if applicable) or, if you are uncomfortable doing that, with the Chair of the Committee.

The Corporation’s employees, officers and directors generally have other legal and contractual obligations to the Corporation. This Code is not intended to reduce or limit the other obligations that you may have with the Corporation. Instead, the standards in this Code should be viewed as the minimum standards that the Corporation expects from its employees, officers and directors in the conduct of the Corporation’s business.

1. Workplace

(a) A Non-Discriminatory Environment

The Corporation fosters a work environment in which all individuals are treated with respect and dignity. The Corporation is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against employees, officers, directors or potential employees, officers or directors on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation or disability or any other category protected by Canadian federal or provincial laws and regulations, or any laws or regulations applicable in the jurisdiction where such employees, officers or directors are located. The Corporation is committed to actions and policies to assure fair employment, including equal treatment in hiring, promotion, training, compensation, termination and corrective action and will not tolerate discrimination by its employees and agents.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

(b) Harassment-Free Workplace

The Corporation will not tolerate harassment of its employees, customers or suppliers in any form.

(c) Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is illegal, and all employees, officers and directors of the Corporation are prohibited from engaging in any form of sexually harassing behavior. Sexual harassment means unwelcome sexual conduct, either visual, verbal or physical, and may include, but is not limited to, unwanted sexual advances, unwanted touching and suggestive touching, language of a sexual nature, telling sexual jokes, innuendoes, suggestions, suggestive looks and displaying sexually suggestive visual materials.

(d) Substance Abuse

The Corporation is committed to maintaining a safe and healthy work environment free of substance abuse. Employees, officers and directors of the Corporation are expected to perform their responsibilities in a professional manner and, at any time while in the workplace, be free from the effects of drugs (except prescription drugs that do not affect judgement or performance) and/or alcohol.

(e) Workplace Violence

The workplace must be free from violent behavior. Threatening, intimidating or aggressive behavior, as well as bullying, subjecting to ridicule or other similar behavior toward fellow employees or others in the workplace will not be tolerated.

2. Environment, Health and Safety

(a) Environment

The Corporation is committed to sound environmental management. It is the intent of the Corporation to conduct itself in partnership with the environment and community at large as a responsible and caring business entity. The Corporation is committed to managing all phases of its business in a manner that minimizes any adverse effects of its operations on the environment.

(b) Health and Safety

The Corporation is committed to providing a healthy and safe workplace in compliance with applicable laws, rules and regulations. Employees must be aware of the safety issues and policies that affect their job, other employees and the community in general. Managers, upon learning of any circumstance affecting the health and safety of the workplace or the community, must act immediately to address the situation. Employees must immediately advise their managers of any workplace injury or any circumstance presenting a dangerous situation to them, other co-workers or the community in general, so that timely corrective action can be taken.

3. Conflicts of Interest

A conflict of interest arises when we put our personal interests in conflict with the interests of the Corporation. We take care to ensure that we identify and avoid any situation of actual or apparent conflict of interest.

There are several situations that could give rise to a conflict of interest. The most common are accepting gifts, favors or kickbacks from suppliers; involvement with, or material ownership of, another company that is in competition with the Corporation; intentional disclosure of confidential information; and using or disclosing insider information to benefit yourself or others.

Some conflicts are clear-cut; others are less obvious. The Corporation recognizes that we have legitimate outside interests; however, there may also be situations that could be seen as a conflict of interest no matter how innocent the intentions of the employee or service provider.

For that reason, we must fully disclose to a supervisor or senior management of the Corporation, all circumstances that could reasonably be construed or perceived as a conflict of interest. Full disclosure enables us to resolve unclear situations and creates an opportunity to dispose of conflicting interests before any difficulty can arise. Where necessary, a supervisor, or senior management, may refer a specific situation to the Corporation's legal counsel, which may recommend any actions needed to eliminate the actual or potential conflict of interest.

4. Confidential Information and Privacy

Confidential information includes proprietary, technical, business, financial, joint venture, supplier, customer and employee information that it intended to be confidential. We do not disclose or use such information other than in the necessary course of business. Similarly, we do not use confidential information obtained by virtue of our employment with the Corporation for our own personal gain, or to benefit any person or entity other than the Corporation. Proprietary information belonging to others must be given the same protection against unauthorized disclosure and use as we give to our own information.

In addition, the Corporation may collect, use and store personal information about its employees, contractors, customers, suppliers, associates and others in the course of its business activities. This collection, use and disclosure of personal information is subject to provincial, federal and international laws. The Corporation respects the privacy rights of all individuals.

5. Entertainment, Gifts and Favors

It is essential to efficient business practices that all those who do business with us, as suppliers, contractors or customers, have access to us on equal terms.

Directors, employees, and members of their immediate families must not accept entertainment, gifts or favors that compromise, or even appear to compromise, their ability to make objective and fair business decisions. Similarly, none of us may offer gifts or favors that might be perceived as unfairly influencing a business interaction.

Gifts and entertainment may be accepted or offered by us only in the normal exchanges common to business relationships. The following criteria will guide our judgement:

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

- the benefit received or given is not of material value;
- the Corporation could easily reciprocate, if the benefit is received;
- the exchange creates no obligation on behalf of the Corporation; and
- it occurs infrequently.

Consequently, business lunches and dinners, the exchange of modest items between business associates, presentation of small tokens of appreciation at public functions or an inexpensive memento would be acceptable.

As a guide, we should not accept any entertainment or benefit that could not be justified on a corporate expense statement were we offering it rather than receiving it.

Inappropriate gifts that are received by employees should be returned to the donor. Perishable gifts, or gifts that cannot be returned to the donor for any reason, shall be disposed of or donated to a charity and the donor notified.

In some cultures, or business settings, the return of a gift or refusal of a favor would be offensive. In these cases, the best practice is usually to accept the gift on behalf of the corporation, report it to a supervisor, or senior employee, and turn it over to the Corporation for disposal.

6. Commitment to Employees

Our success depends on the actions and decisions of our people. A sound, healthy relationship between the Corporation and its employees is based on integrity, trust and openness.

We treat each other with fairness and respect and work with honesty and dedication.

Specifically, we strive:

- to provide a safe and healthy workplace that respects all employees' rights;
- to provide a compensation and benefits package that is reasonable and competitive;
- to develop employee talents and capabilities in the best business interests of the Corporation and employee career aspirations;
- to facilitate honest, timely, two-way communication; and
- to safeguard the confidentiality of employee records and the privacy of employees' personal information;
- to provide employment, promotions and working conditions that are fair to all individuals and free of discrimination or harassment;
- to respect freedom of association and expression in the workplace; and

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

- to provide avenues for the equitable resolution of employee complaints.

We strive to create a high-performance working environment in which individuals can contribute their personal best and willingly hold themselves accountable for achieving extraordinary business results.

The Corporation provides appropriate legal and other support to employees who become involved in legal proceedings as a result of their employment.

7. Human Rights and Community

(a) Commitment to Communities

We value our reputation as a good corporate citizen. We are sensitive to the cultures and expectations of our communities. We contribute to the social and economic well-being of the communities where we have a presence and we promote an ethical business culture.

Our success as an energy company depends on the support of the communities in which we operate. We aim to invest and conduct operations in a manner that is economically rewarding to all parties, through meaningful and transparent consultation with all stakeholders.

We earn that support, not just through excellence, but by playing an active and important role in our host communities. We invest funds and time in the non-profit sector to help make stronger communities where we live and work. The focus of our social vision is the development of talent, innovation and expertise through education. We also support a wide range of activities designed to meet fundamental community needs. We are committed to the protection of the environment. We conduct our activities in a manner consistent with sound environmental management and conservation practices and strive to minimize the environmental impact of our operations and products. We work diligently to prevent any risk to community health and safety from our operations or our products. All of us have a role in ensuring our operations comply with environmental and health and safety legislation, industry standards and Corporation policy and standards.

Management has both a legal and a moral responsibility for safety and the protection of the environment, and to ensure the Corporation is not complicit in abuses of human or other legal rights, and every supervisor and senior employee has specific obligations in these areas. But each of us also has a personal responsibility to take all prudent precautions in every activity, not just to ensure personal safety, but also to avoid creating danger to others.

8. Insider Information and Tipping

Securities laws prohibit the buying or selling of any securities, including the Corporation securities, as well as the securities of customers, contractors, suppliers and all other corporations, by anyone who possesses material non-public information relating to the issuer of the securities. Material non-public information is information which, if disclosed, would reasonably be expected to have a significant impact on the market value of such securities.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Also prohibited is “tipping”, being the disclosure of material, non-public information to anyone other than in the necessary course of business.

9. Use of Corporate Property

We are entrusted with the care, management and cost-effective use of the Corporation’s property and we do not make use of these resources for our own personal benefit or purposes.

We ensure that all corporate property assigned to us is maintained in good condition and we should be able to account for such property.

We may not dispose of corporate property except where authorized to do so by management.

Access to the Corporation’s information technology is restricted. Passwords are to be kept confidential and use of the information technology is limited to authorized business purposes.

10. Records, Reporting and Disclosure

The Corporation shall make and keep books, records, and accounts which conform to high professional standards of accuracy and consistency and which, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the Corporation’s transactions. All financial transactions must be properly and fairly recorded in such books of account and must be made available for inspection by the Corporation’s internal and external auditors.

The financial managers of the Corporation will at all times conduct themselves in accordance with the Combined Rules of Professional Conduct and Related Guidelines of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Alberta.

The Corporation is committed to complete, accurate and balanced disclosure of material information in a timely manner and in compliance with regulatory requirements. The Corporation is committed to balanced disclosure of both good and bad news in an effort to provide an accurate picture of the Corporation’s challenges, achievements and prospects.

11. Compliance with Law

We act at all times in full compliance with both the letter and the spirit of legislative and regulatory requirements of the jurisdictions in which we operate. We may not commit or condone an unethical or illegal act nor instruct another employee, contractor or supplier to do so. Legislation in all jurisdictions in which the Corporation operates criminalizes the bribery of foreign public officials. We will not make illegal or improper payments and we will not participate in any corrupt business practices. We will honour internationally accepted labour standards and support and respect the protection of human rights within our sphere of influence. Competition laws are designed to ensure fair competition in the marketplace for products and services. We benefit from and comply with such laws.

We are expected to be sufficiently familiar with any laws that apply to our work to recognize potential dangers and to know when to seek legal advice. If in doubt, we should discuss the matter with our supervisor, or a senior employee, or discuss the matter with the Corporation’s legal counsel.

12. Reporting Concerns and Receiving Advice

(a) Communication Channels

- (i) Be Proactive. Every employee is encouraged to act proactively by asking questions, seeking guidance and reporting suspected violations of the Code and other policies and procedures of the Corporation, as well as any violation or suspected violation of applicable law, rule or regulation arising in the conduct of the Corporation's business or occurring on the Corporation's property. If any employee believes that actions have taken place, may be taking place, or may be about to take place that violate or would violate the Code, he or she is obligated to bring the matter to the attention of the Corporation.
- (ii) Seek Guidance. The best starting point for an officer or employee seeking advice on ethics related issues or reporting potential violations of the Code will usually be his or her supervisor. However, if the conduct in question involves his or her supervisor, if the employee has reported the conduct in question to his or her supervisor and does not believe that he or she has dealt with it properly, or if the officer or employee does not feel that he or she can discuss the matter with his or her supervisor, the employee may raise the matter with the Chair of the Committee.
- (iii) Communication Alternatives. Any officer or employee may communicate with the Chair of the Committee by any of the following methods: (i) in writing (which may be done anonymously as set forth below under "Reporting; Anonymity"), (ii) email, (iii) fax, or (iv) telephone. Any concerns or questions regarding potential violations of the Code, any other company policy or procedure or applicable law, rules or regulations involving accounting, internal accounting controls or auditing matters should be directed to the Chair of the Audit Committee. Officers and employees may use the above method(s) to communicate anonymously with the Audit Committee.
- (iv) Misuse of Reporting Channels. Employees must not use these reporting channels in bad faith or in a false or frivolous manner.

(b) Reporting; Anonymity

When reporting suspected violations of the Code, the Corporation prefers that officers and employees identify themselves in order to facilitate the Corporation's ability to take appropriate steps to address the report, including conducting any appropriate investigation. However, the Corporation also recognizes that some people may feel more comfortable reporting a suspected violation anonymously.

If an officer or employee wishes to remain anonymous, he or she may do so, and the Corporation will use reasonable efforts to protect the confidentiality of the reporting person subject to applicable law, rule or regulation or to any applicable legal proceedings. In the event the report is made anonymously, however, the Corporation may not have sufficient information to look into or otherwise investigate or evaluate the allegations. Accordingly, persons who make reports anonymously should provide as much detail as is reasonably necessary to permit the Corporation to evaluate the matter(s) set forth in the anonymous report and, if appropriate, commence and conduct an appropriate investigation.

(c) No Retaliation

The Corporation expressly forbids any retaliation against any officer or employee who, acting in good faith, reports suspected misconduct. Any person who participates in any such retaliation is subject to disciplinary action, including termination of service.
